

North

A

B

75°

The diagram consists of a vertical line extending upwards from a point, labeled 'North' at its top. From the same point, a line segment extends downwards and to the right, ending at a point labeled 'B'. The angle between the vertical line and the segment AB is marked with an arc and labeled '75°'. The point where the lines meet is labeled 'A' at the bottom left.